

Join the Co-Response Crisis Intervention Team (CCIT) A Unique and Rewarding Opportunity!

Are you a licensed mental health professional looking to make a meaningful impact? The Co-Response Crisis Intervention Team (CCIT) offers an innovative, dynamic role where your expertise can save lives and shape community well-being. CCIT clinicians work alongside law enforcement to respond directly to mental health crises in the field, providing immediate stabilization, intervention, and linkage to care.

What Makes CCIT Unique?

- Collaborative Co-Response Model: Partner with law enforcement to address mental health crises in real-time, ensuring safety and support for individuals and the community.
- Diverse Responsibilities: From de-escalation and crisis stabilization to care coordination and public education, every day offers meaningful challenges and opportunities to grow.
- Specialized Training: CCIT clinicians receive advanced training, including crisis negotiation techniques, trauma-informed care, and innovative intervention strategies.

Why Choose CCIT?

- Differential Pay: Earn a 10% differential for working in this specialized role. Swing shift clinicians (12 PM to 10 PM) receive an additional 7.5% differential.
- Career Growth: Develop leadership and crisis response skills while working with a highly skilled, multidisciplinary team.
- Community Impact: Be at the forefront of reducing stigma, bridging gaps in mental health care, and building stronger, safer communities.

Who We're Looking For:

- Passionate licensed mental health professionals (LMFT, LCSW, LPCC) committed to compassionate care and innovative crisis response.
- Team players ready to collaborate with law enforcement and other partners in high-pressure, dynamic environments.
- Clinicians eager to make a tangible difference, one call at a time.
